Bedroom – a space of luxury, intimacy and perfect balance

The bedroom is not just a place to rest – it is a sanctuary, a space of sophisticated comfort and luxury, where every detail contributes to a sense of peace and harmony.

Ambient lighting creates a subtle glow, emphasizing elegant stucco, refined pendants and branded chandeliers, which give the space a dose of exclusivity. Rich materials, such as velvet, silk and fine fabrics, bring warmth and tactile luxury, while carefully crafted branded wardrobes bring a sense of superior aesthetics and functionality.

A special design element is the glass wall that separates the bathroom, creating an airy and contemporary impression, while mirrors reflect light and further deepen the space.

This is a space that not only provides rest, but also an experience of luxury in its finest form.

A kitchen designed as a harmony of natural warmth and refined elegance

The central element of the space is the marble island – strong, timeless and dominant, but at the same time refined. Its structure and natural patterns bring a dose of luxury and give character to the entire composition. The island is not just a work surface, but a place for gathering, conversation and everyday rituals.

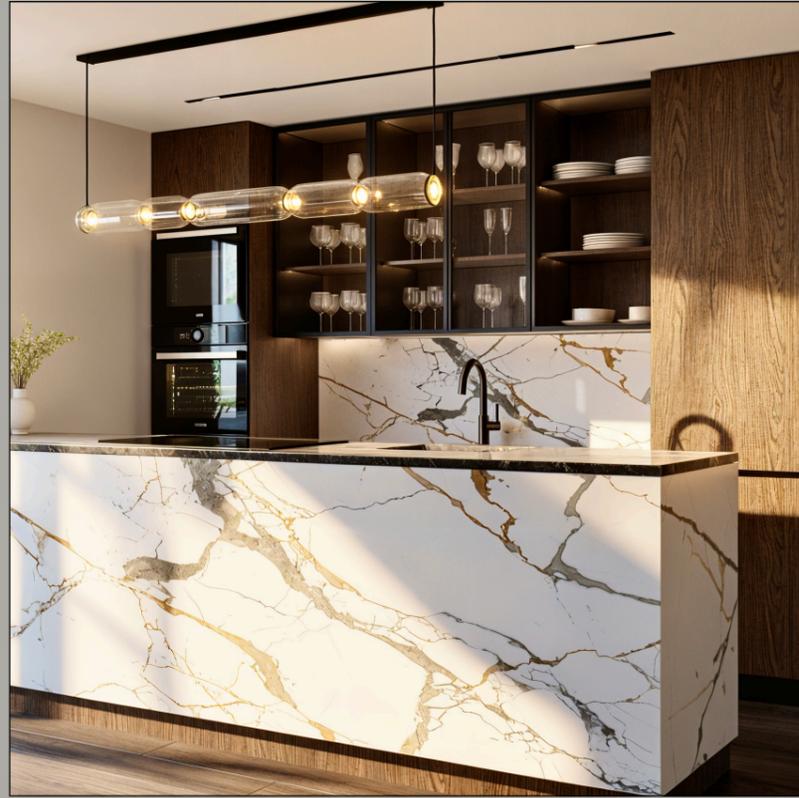

Elegant oak fronts bring warmth and balance. The natural texture of the wood softens the coldness of the stone and creates a sense of comfort, while clean lines maintain a contemporary and minimalist expression. The combination of materials has been carefully measured to make the space appear harmonious, calm and sophisticated.

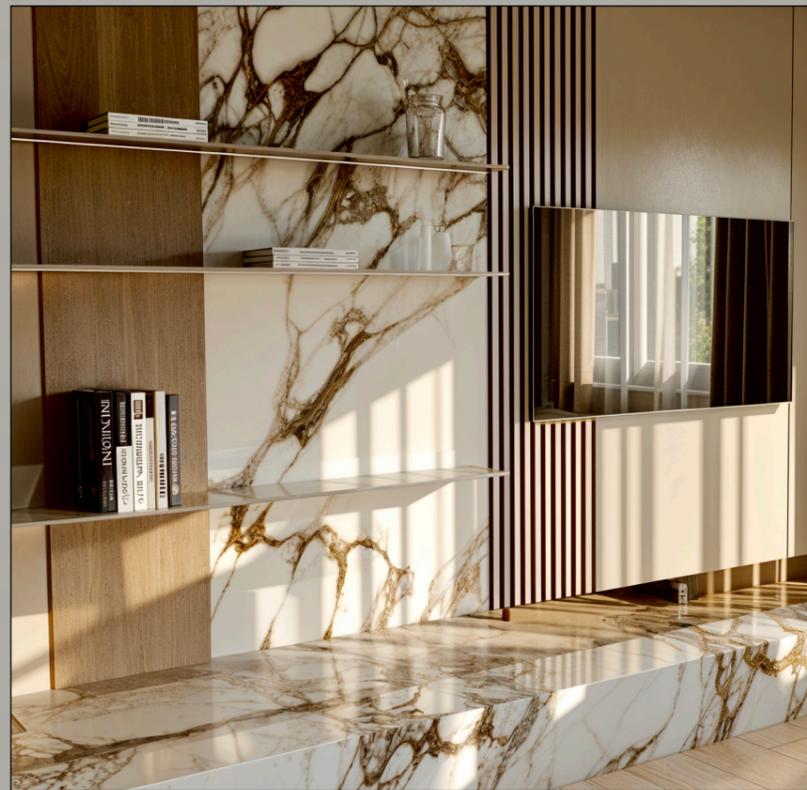

The upper elements in tinted glass bring lightness and airiness. Subtle transparency gives depth to the space, while discreetly hiding the contents and maintaining the neatness of the visual whole. Light reflections further emphasize the elegance of the entire ambience.

A transparent pendant with gold details rounds off the story – delicate, but striking. Gold accents add warmth and a touch of glamour, while the transparent body of the light maintains a sense of lightness and unobtrusiveness.

The result is a kitchen that combines luxury and naturalness, functionality and aesthetics – a space that exudes calm, but leaves a strong visual impression.

The bathroom in the bedroom is designed as an intimate wellness space, an extension of the private relaxation zone

The exit to the private garden erases the boundary between interior and exterior. Natural light and greenery become part of the ambiance, creating a feeling of freshness and complete isolation from the rest of the world. The space breathes with tranquility and discreet luxury.

The walk-through shower is designed to be open and airy, without visual barriers. Minimalist glass panels emphasize the architecture of the space, while carefully selected patterned ceramics bring character and dynamism. It is complemented by marble surfaces that give the space timeless elegance and a strong aesthetic note.

The freestanding bathtub is placed as a sculptural element – dominant, but unobtrusive. Located in the axis of the view towards the garden, it becomes a place of relaxation and ritual, in complete harmony with nature.

Natural decors and materials create warmth and balance, while subtle stucco adds a dose of classical refinement in a contemporary interpretation. Ambient lighting is carefully integrated to accentuate the textures, reliefs and depth of the space, creating a layered and intimate atmosphere.

The result is a very luxurious, elegant and refined bathroom – timeless in expression, yet contemporary and authentic.

A kitchen dominated by natural tones creates an atmosphere of calm, balance and subtle elegance

Taupe fronts in two shades build the depth of the space without abrupt contrasts. The tones gently complement each other, creating layering and refined dynamics, while at the same time maintaining a calm, earthy character. This palette brings a sense of stability and warmth, without weight.

The travertine kitchen island becomes the natural center of the composition. Its texture and authentic stone structure emphasize the organic aesthetics of the space. Travertine brings subtle rusticity, but in a modern interpretation – raw and sophisticated at the same time.

Poliform wooden bar stools further enhance the impression of naturalness. Clean lines and high-quality material processing bring design precision, while wood gives softness and comfort. They connect the kitchen island with the rest of the space and invite you to linger, talk and engage in everyday rituals.

The overall impression is natural, warm and pleasant – a space that does not demand attention, but retains it with its quiet elegance.

A bedroom designed as a private oasis of peace and subtle luxury

The space is carefully zoned to provide complete functionality while maintaining a refined aesthetic. The walk-in closet is integrated into the whole in a way that works discreetly and harmoniously, without disrupting the clean lines of the space. The organization is precise, clear and adapted to everyday rituals, creating a sense of order and lightness.

Inside the room there is also a separate area intended for makeup, work and additional storage. This multifunctional unit is designed to combine elegance and practicality - refined surfaces, subtle textures and carefully selected materials create an environment that encourages focus, but also enjoyment of details.

Neutral tones dominate the space, building a calm and luxurious atmosphere. A palette of beige, warm gray and soft earthy shades allows textures and light to come to the fore. It is the ambient lighting that plays a key role - discreetly integrated into wardrobe elements, behind the headboard and in the work area, it emphasizes the depth of the space and creates a layered light scenography.

The result is a sophisticated, elegant and extremely luxurious bedroom that combines high-class aesthetics with the intimate comfort of a private space.

The living room is designed as the center of the home – a gathering space, a place of warmth and quiet luxury

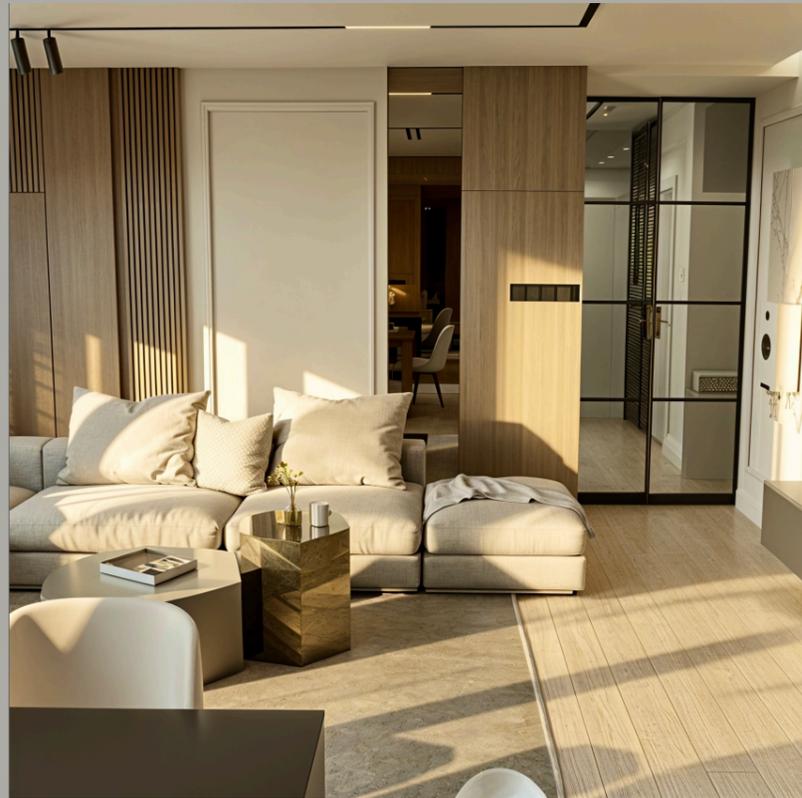

Elegant wooden panels shape the walls and give the space depth, rhythm and a sense of stability. Their natural texture brings warmth, while the precise execution maintains a contemporary and refined character. Combined with subtle stucco, a harmony of classic elegance and modern expression is achieved.

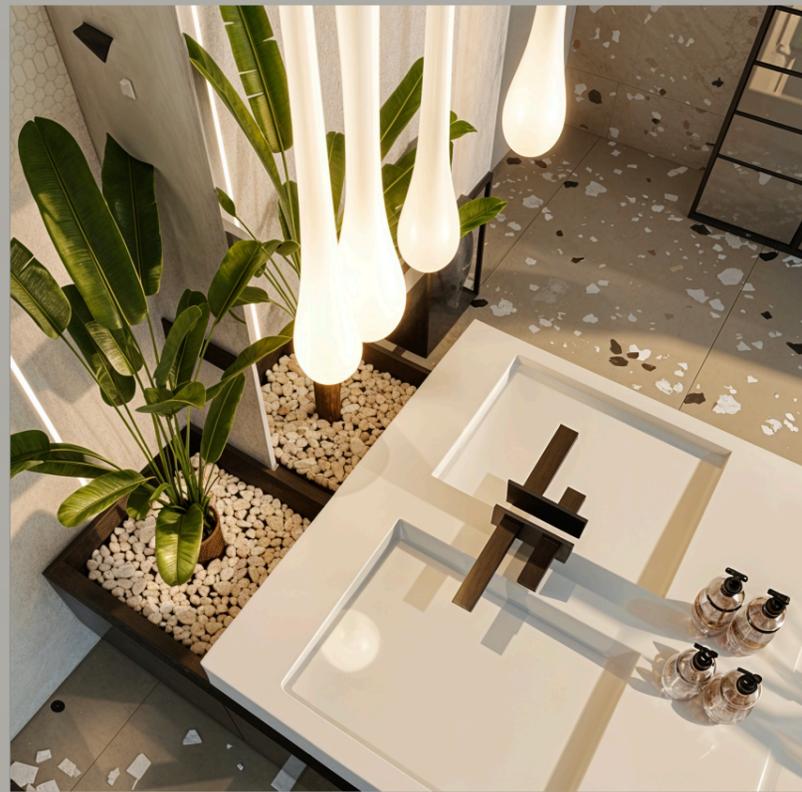

Technical recessed lighting is discreetly integrated into the architecture of the space. The light emphasizes the textures of the wood and the reliefs of the stucco, creates layers and enables different atmospheres – from daytime functionality to the evening, more intimate scenography. Everything is clean, unobtrusive and precise.

The arrangement of furniture encourages closeness and conversation. The space is organized in such a way that it feels open, but at the same time protected and comfortable. The balance of proportions, materials and tones creates a family atmosphere in which elegance is not imposed, but naturally arises from the overall composition.

The result is a living room that combines comfort and sophistication refined, warm and truly family.

The luxurious hallway is designed as a powerful architectural introduction to the space – impressive, yet measured

The walls are covered with elegant wooden panels that give the space warmth and rhythm. Their precise line and fine workmanship create a sense of continuity, while the filomuro doors, covered with the same panels, remain almost invisible. The surfaces flow without interruption, and the space appears clean, calm and perfectly coordinated.

The marble staircase brings monumentality and timeless elegance. Its structure and natural pattern become a sculptural element of the interior, emphasizing the verticality of the space. In contrast to the warmth of the wood, the marble gives a dose of sophisticated luxury.

The bronze railing further emphasizes the luxurious character. Its subtle shine and noble patina bring depth and refined detail, discreetly reflecting light and emphasizing the architecture of the staircase.

A special impression is created by a light tunnel with plants and solar lamps. Natural greenery brings freshness and life, while filtered light creates a play of shadows and an ambient atmosphere. The space thus gains dynamics and a sense of connection with nature.

The result is a hallway that exudes luxury, elegance and thoughtful architecture – representative, yet warm and refined.
